

HELPING OFF A PASSENGER.

Devoted Railroad Workmen Who Accepted for Assail.

Andrew H. Kuhn, a brakeman on the Third Avenue elevated road, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with assaulting James Quinn of 200 East 116th street.

Quinn said in the Yorkville Police Court that he got on a train at Chatham square on March 25. The brakeman did not get off the car after the train left the station. Quinn objected to the driver and closed the door several times himself. The brakeman told Quinn to stop closing the door.

At the Thirty-ninth street station Quinn got off the car. He says the brakeman followed him, caught him by the coat collar and trousers, rushed him twenty feet along the platform, pitched him against the iron gate of the car, breaking one of his fingers and badly cutting his face.

Quinn says a tobacco dealer of 30 Broad street, corroborated Quinn's statement, and said he assisted Quinn in his fight with the brakeman. The tobacco dealer said that Quinn was disorderly and abusive. The brakeman was held in $500 bail for trial.

Arresting a Girl for Selling Beer.

Policeman Zabricki H. Mullin went into "Seafish Johnny's" restaurant, at 60 West Fourth street, on Thursday, and ordered a glass of beer. It was given to him by Miss Mary, the waitress.

Miss Mary is the daughter of the proprietor, Jess had no license, and Mullin arrested Miss Mary. Justice Patterson held her in $100 bail yesterday. Her father became her bondsman.
